RUSH CARMAN CASE TO JURY TAKE GERMAN FORT, REPORT

Demands Mystery Probe

TSING-TAO TAKEN BY JAPS, TOKIO PAPERS DECLARE

TOKIO, Oct. 24.—Unofficial reports printed in the Japanese newspapers today say that Tsing-Tao has fallen. The admiralty refuses to confirm these rumors, but the city is making preparations to celebrate a great victory.

It has been definitely learned that the cruiser Takachiho, reported at first to have been blown up by a mine, was torpedoed and sunk by the German torpedo boat S-90, which was subsequently beached to escape capture. The crew of the S-90 escaped to neutral territory with important documents which the boat had been ordered to get through the Japanese blockades.

Six hundred thousand fresh troops have reinforced the German armies along the Franco-Belgian front, dispatches from Berlin today announce, and every available man will be brought into action at once in a desperate attempt to break the allies line and force the conflict to a conclusion as quickly as possible.

The Kaiser is reported to be directing the battle in person, with headquarters at Mezieres. It is also reported that the Germans have made gains between Lille and Arras and driven a wedge toward Lens and La Bassée, respectively sixteen and thirteen miles southwest of Lille, that threatens to cut off the extreme left wing of the allies.

REPORT ANTWERP EVACUATED.

Reports from different sources agree that the Germans have evacuated Antwerp. A dispatch to the London Express from The Hague says, "The German garrison at Antwerp left Friday, in response to the most stringent orders."

Antwerp, battered by the German siege guns which no fort has thus far been able to resist, surrendered to the Germans October 10, despite the desperate resistance of the Belgian garrison, reinforced by 2,000 or more British troops.

A dispatch to the London Chronicle offers a partial confirmation of the city's evacuation by the Germans, saying: "Practically all the German forces have evacuated Antwerp and marched south, apparently to take part in the conflict."

A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says that a message from Fleming declares that wives of German officers at Brussels have been ordered to leave that city within forty-eight hours.

The withdrawal of the invaders from Antwerp might explain

French Ship Sinks With Hundreds of Wounded Soldiers

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The French ship Marie Henriette, with hundreds of wounded soldiers aboard, has been wrecked on the French coast near Cape Hartleur, according to a dispatch received here, and is believed to have sunk.

The dispatch states that the vessel sent 100,000 calls for help and that other French ships rushed to the rescue, but that the last word received from the vessel said that all her helms were out, indicating that her engines had been put out of commission by water.

McLean Hurt Racing Train with Auto

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Racing with a mile-a-minute Baltimore & Ohio special in the 15000 Italian motor car, Edward J. McLean, father of Vinson Walsh McLean, the "one million dollar baby," received a broken arm when the gasoline tank of the machine exploded. The car was destroyed by flames. McLean had been to the Laurel race track and was returning to Washington. He had with him John Olsen, a garage keeper in this city. McLean set his machine to full speed. He was keeping alongside the train when the explosion came and he and his companion were hurled to the ground.

SEEK LAST LETTER OF BERYL

Mrs. Elizabeth Grogan today set on foot measures to force a rigid investigation of the death of her daughter, Beryl Grogan Krouse, in El Paso, Texas, demanding answers "to us questioning before she will be satisfied the death was suicide."

Beryl Grogan was one of the witnesses of the "love duel" in Cambridge a year ago. Mrs. Grogan made the statement that she told:

"Where did the poison that killed the girl come from?"

How was the party 'green' taken?"

Why did Krouse, the husband, telegraph that Beryl died Monday night when, as a matter of fact, it is now said she took?

Mrs. Carman Awaits Fate

A study of the accused woman, as she listened to the testimony in the court room at Mineola. Throughout the trial, Mrs. Carman has been calm and assured, save for one occasion. When her nine-year-old daughter, after testifying, kissed her, Mrs. Carman broke down and wept.

DEFENCE RESTS; PRISONER SURE OF ACQUITTAL

MINEOLA, L. I., Oct. 24.—The defence in the trial of Mrs. Florence Carman, for the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey rested just before noon today.

Hope increases as the case is rushed to its final stage that the jury will retire for its deliberations before the day is over. None is more hopeful of this and of speedy freedom by acquittal than the prisoner herself.

The accused woman was buoyant and cheerful when she came into court today.

"I will be at home tomorrow," she told her little daughter Elizabeth as she took her seat in the courtroom at the opening of what is believed to be the final day of the trial.

It is expected that the case will go to the jury late this afternoon or this evening. Justice Kelby wants to conclude the case this week and a night session will be held if necessary, but it is probable that this will be avoided.

Counsel for the defence predicted that a verdict of acquittal would be rendered soon after the retirement of the jury. District Attorney Smith professed similar confidence that the jury would decide Mrs. Carman guilty. The general impression, however, was that the jury would disagree. If it does it is probable that Mrs. Carman will never be tried again. The belief that a disagreement would be reported by the jury was based on the theory that the story told by Calla Coleman would be credited by one or more jurors, despite the fact that it was flatly contradicted by the defendant and members of her family.

NO TRACE OF ANXIETY.
Mrs. Carman showed no trace of anxiety when she came into court. She smiled happily when she was informed that her friends were preparing to welcome her upon her return to the Prospect home, from which she was brought to the Mineola jail in July.

Plans for the reception of the defendant upon her arrival at Prospect were in charge of Dr. William Rundle, one of the closest friends of Dr. Edwin Carman, her husband, and the first man summoned by Dr. Carman after Mrs. Bailey was shot to death in his office.

Dr. Rundle declared that the reception to Mrs. Carman would show that the ordeal through which she had been compelled to pass had strengthened the esteem in which she is held by her neighbors.

Mrs. Carman smiled and bowed a good morning to the jurors and again affectionately greeted her little daughter, Elizabeth, who ran over and impulsively threw herself into her mother's arms as soon as she entered the courtroom.

Dr. Carman brought her a number

ESCAPES FROM CHARLESTOWN COURT ROOM

By a thirty-foot drop from the courtroom window, William A. Waldron, twenty-nine, held for breaking out entering and larceny, escaped from the Charlestown police today. A general alarm has been sent out for his capture.

Court was over and Waldron had been held for the Grand Jury. He was the only prisoner left in the dock, and Court officer Henry Fox was the only other person in the courtroom. Waldron darted to the window, swung out, hung for a moment and then dropped. Before the alarm could be given he was free.

Last April William A. G. Trainer, escaped from the courtroom in a similar manner and was never captured. It is a temporary courtroom in the Abbotsford Building.

Waldron was arrested in the grocery store of a S. Swallow on City Square last night after police had found the back door open. The police may be able to find a record.

Despite Deser Old Kat's celebrated pronouncements that he and his pals were never playing for the Dear Old Coll and that they didn't care a rap for the Lord Purple, there are manifestations of the doubt about the impenetrability of this position in college athletic circles.

It is true that the members of the Purple Public were going to be given a mild lesson and the result is likely to be a more complete understanding of the meaning of public interest in the game.

Mr. McConaughy, who has been a young man there reveals practically no ground for such suspicion.

He says that the idea of Mr. Raughton's idea was that the Purple Public would be given a young college man on the level of competence.

It would be interesting to know how many of the members of the team who compete in track and field and who are required to wear numbers, feel that they are being given a lesson.

Interviews with the members of the team would also be of some value, but it is not so much the feeling that Mr. Raughton shows

"The United States Government Should Own a Great World-Wide Fleet"

Of Course, It Should. Too Bad the Wise Men Could Not Have Realized the Fact Sooner

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

Mr. Reynolds, the great Chicago banker, says that the United States government should build ships and spend hundreds of millions at once. A good, if a late, idea.

George W. Norris, director of docks and ferries in the port of Philadelphia, says that the government must go into the ship business and do for the carrying trade of the United States what private individuals cannot do.

All over the country statesmen and business men are waking up to the fact that this government ought to have a great fleet, and that THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT should be the owner and manager of the fleet.

Year in and year out this newspaper has advocated the building of ships to be owned by Americans for the benefit of Americans.

We fought for the free use of the Panama Canal by American ships IN ORDER TO ENCOURAGE AMERICAN SHIPBUILDING. But narrow-minded and short-sighted newspapers, filled with the dread that some mythical ship trust might benefit, opposed the plan that would have encouraged private building of ships.

And in the Middle West the newspapers, which now realize their folly, opposed the idea of free use of the Canal for American ships on the ground that the Middle West "WAS NOT INTERESTED IN BUILDING UP SHIPPING ON THE COASTS."

Now, with its supplies of grain and manufactured goods piled up and suffering for lack of ships, the Middle West and its newspapers realize probably that it is not advantageous for one part of the United States selfishly to oppose the welfare of another part of the United States, SINCE ALL MUST PROSPER OR SUFFER TOGETHER.

The fact is, as this newspaper has repeatedly said, that the government of the United States should be the great United States owner.

Instead of a few war vessels, our navy should consist of thousands of great ships capable of being used in war, capable of carrying guns or freight if necessary.

Our readers will remember the repeated suggestions that this newspaper has made for a naval program that would include enough ships to carry the grain and all the products of the United States at a very low cost of profit to the government, such as the government could well afford.

Government ownership will solve the problem of a great American navy, and nothing else will.

Mayor Curley and Congressman-to-Be Tague Will Debate City Charter in the AMERICAN

The people of Boston at the coming State election will decide whether or not they wish to amend their City Charter by increasing the size of the City Council from nine, its present number, to seventeen, the number proposed in the amendment to be submitted on the ballot.

This question has agitated the people of Boston ever since the adoption of the new City Charter. Many men in the public life of the city predicted at the time the charter was adopted that the small council elected by all the voters of the city would result in the failure of the sections of the city, whose interests are more or less peculiar, from representation in the City Council.

Many citizens believe that the truth of this prophecy has been proved by the events which have followed. On the other hand, those who are opposed to any change in the City Charter contend that a small council induces able men to serve and reduces to a minimum the evil of logrolling. This is a serious evil in our representative form of government which no one will deny.

The Good Government Association and its friends throughout the city have vigorously opposed any effort to change the charter, but the Democratic administration at the State House, believing in home rule for the cities, has submitted the question to the voters for decision.

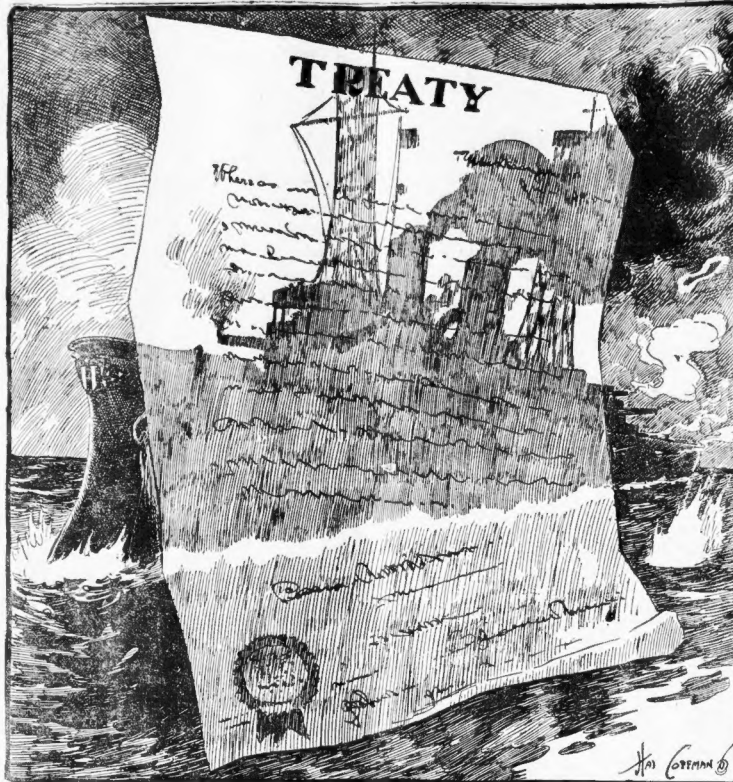

The AMERICAN has arranged a written debate between Mayor Curley and the Hon. Peter F. Tague, who will be the next Congressman from the Tenth District, on this very important question. Mayor Curley, as is well known, is opposed to any amendment of the charter. He believes in a small City Council. Congressman-to-be Tague was the Democratic floor leader of the House of Representatives which passed the bill submitting the charter amendment to the citizens against the bitter opposition of the Mayor and his friends.

There is also some interest in a literary and political contest between these two men because they were also pitted against each other recently at the primary election, when Mayor Curley opposed Mr. Tague's nomination for Congress.

The discussion, however, will be without acrimony or personalities. Both men will discuss the issue as seriously as its importance deserves. There is no partisanship involved and neither attempts to make it a question of party politics.

The main discussion will appear in tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN. On the following Sunday, which will be the last before election, each of the gentlemen will reply to the arguments of the other.

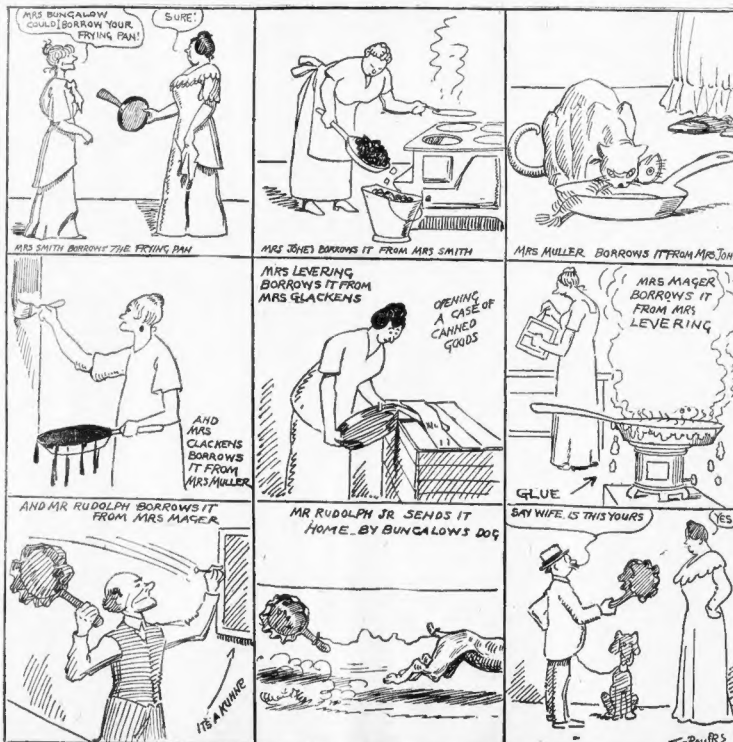

Thus the people of Boston will be able to consider the best that can be said on both sides of it the discussion in order that he may vote intelligently on this important proposal.

County Commissioner Gould is eighty-three years old. His Democratic opponent is State Senator Charles F. McCarthy, a Spanish War veteran and the son of a Civil War veteran.

Senator McCarthy is talking to the voters of Middlesex about the MISMANAGEMENT OF COUNTY AFFAIRS BY THE MIDDLESEX RING.

The Senator says the County Commissioners approved a bill of $1,068 for the equipment of a bathroom in the house of the keeper of the county jail at Lowell, a bill of $767 for painting and papering seven rooms there, a bill of $365 for "repairing stairs," a family butter bill of $327 for a single year, $110 for "cleaning carpets," and $148 for a gas stove in the keeper's kitchen!

There isn't room here to more than hint at the disclosures Senator McCarthy is making relative to the affairs of one of the most thickly populated counties in the world. The story will be printed in full in tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN. WHEREVER you live you will find this Middlesex story INTERESTING. If you are one of the 700,000 citizens of Middlesex, you will find it VITAL.

And then there is the mysterious CARMAN CASE at Mineola, the MURDER CASE WITH A DICTAGRAF IN IT. Some of the greatest experts in the United States will write of the Carman case for the Sunday AMERICAN.

And the case of Ex-Mayor and Ex-Policeman George Brown of Lowell, who GOT HIS NOSE SCRATCHED AND WENT AWAY FOR A FEW DAYS. Commissioner Brown is back on the job and talking of doing things to the awful newspapers. We advise George to order a copy of the Sunday AMERICAN. We promise George that he will find it interesting.

The name of Johnny Evers will appear scarcely once in the Sunday AMERICAN.

Football holds the stage and the page.

The best football stories will be found, as usual, in the Sunday AMERICAN.

Mr. Finley Peter Dunne will have Mr. Dooley in the Sunday AMERICAN, talking of "Eugenics." Mr. T. E. Powers has drawn the Dooley pictures. (If you believe in laughing on Sunday, we cheerfully recommend the Dunne-Powers contribution.)

Speaking of eugenics reminds us of the "Twilight Sleep" the doctors—and others—are talking about.

And THAT reminds us that the first "Twilight Sleep" twins were born this week here in Boston.

You'll find photographs of the little darlings in the Sunday AMERICAN, together with a new and intensely interesting story of the new method in childbirth.

The Sunday AMERICAN, as usual, will contain all the news of Greater Boston, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the six New England States, the nation and the world at large.

Of "War news," only the vital, the important, the interesting—but ALL of that.

Newsdealers advise us that many New Englanders asked for Sunday AMERICANS last Sunday only to hear that the dealer was "sold out" of Sunday AMERICANS.

The way to avoid that disappointment is to say a timely word to your REGULAR newsdealer: "SAVE A COPY OF THE SUNDAY AMERICAN FOR ME!"

To You—Who Never Came

By ANN LILE

I DUSTED and swept my hearth,
I made my room all fair,
And I set the curtains high and wide
So the sun fell everywhere;
I put on my loveliest gown,
And my eyes with joy slight.
For only the next I had to give
Was what I'd let you share.
And many another came
Because my home was bright,
And I was gay with ribbons and lace,
And my eyes with joy slight.
But still you tarried away—
You, with the heart you'd won—
While my curtains blew in the eastern breeze
And my flowers bloomed in the sun.
I closed my windows again,
And I set my curtain low
Let my home breathe "Welcome" for all to share—
And after the dreary years
I wonder here at last
If you ever came to the shuttered place,
And dredging its gloom—rode past.
